Mid-January Newsletter

Dear Neighbor,

I hope the New Year is treating you well and that you are all succeeding with your resolutions! There are several updates for you in this month's newsletter, as well as information for you about some wonderful opportunities for residents to learn about the current state of our City and Mayor Reed's outlook for the year ahead, as well as to have direct input into the City's annual budget process.

Neighborhood Associations & Youth Commission Budget Priority Setting Session

If you have not already signed up and you are a neighborhood leader, I encourage you to participate in this annual exercise to provide input on what the City should prioritize when putting together the budget for the 2014-2015 Fiscal Year. The session will be held this coming Saturday, January 18th, from 9:00 AM to 1:00 PM, in the Rotunda of San Jose City Hall (200 E Santa Clara Street). Each neighborhood association may send up to three leaders to participate. You will be joined by neighborhood leaders from throughout the City to discuss the 2014-2015 Operating Budget and, through a series of games and exercises, provide your input. To participate, registration is required. Members of the public are welcome to attend and observe.

Each participant must register individually, and participation is on a first-come, first-served basis. Seating is limited. If you haven't already registered, please do so now by clicking here.

Even if you are not one of those representing your neighborhood this Saturday, every resident can be involved in San José's budget process by playing the Budget Games online! Over the last three years, the Budget Games were conducted as part of the Priority Setting Session, using play money and calculators. Now, with our partner Conteneo, who is supplying the online content at no cost to the City, we have made the game available online, which is new for 2014.

The online version allows more residents to be involved and provide their input into San José's budget in a collaborative, game-style environment. The free, dare I say fun, hour-long online budget sessions will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, January 23rd, 24th, and 25th, from 9:00 AM to 9:00 PM. You choose the times and dates that work best with your schedule.

We hope to have thousands of San José residents participate in the online Budget Games. After all, San José is the Capital of Silicon Valley, so let's take community participation in the budget process to a whole new level!

Register today for the online Budget Games by clicking here.

State of the City

On Thursday, February 20th, at 6:00 PM, San José Mayor Chuck Reed will be giving his State of the City Address at the recently-renovated McEnery San José Convention Center, 50 W. San Carlos Street, San Jose, CA 95113. In addition to the Mayor's address, City Councilmembers will be recognizing organizations and individuals who have gone above and beyond in their service to their communities and the city. I will be honoring the South Valley Family YMCA for their important work with youth in District 10. You will hear more about this in a future newsletter!

This is a great opportunity to hear about the City's accomplishments over the past year, and Mayor Reed's vision for our City, so click here to register. There is no charge for this event and it is open to the public. I hope to see you there!

Make the Call San Jose

I was recently made aware of a new show that could prove to be an incredible asset to the San Jose Police Department and our community as a whole. "Make the call, San José" is a 30-minute program highlighting unsolved homicides in the City of San José. The first episode highlights the unsolved homicides of 20-year old Justin Watkins, gunned down in May of 2013, and 17-year old Anthony Santa Cruz, who was stabbed to death in February 2013. Family members of each victim appear on the show to talk about the lives of these young men and how their deaths have affected their families. Special thanks to the San José Police Department, the Independent Police Auditor, and CreaTV for their collaboration. Let's work together as a community to take criminals off the streets and bring justice and closure to these families. Please take the time to view this first episode of "Make the call, San José!"

Recent Road and Pedestrian Traffic Improvements

While traveling around the district, you may have noticed some new pedestrian safety improvements. On McAbee Road & Golden Oak Way, near Guadalupe Oak Grove Park, the crosswalk was enhanced by replacing the embedded in-ground lights with flashing beacons. Bulb-out curb extensions were also installed to shorten the distance for pedestrians to travel across McAbee Road.

Also, as you exit southbound Highway 85 onto Blossom Avenue, a radar speed display sign has been installed as a reminder that you are entering a residential area. Please remember to slow down to the appropriate speed limit as you exit the highway and always drive safely!

Measure B Litigation Update

In Mayor Reed's monthly newsletter he included some excellent information on the outcome of the Measure B trial that took place last year. If you want to help clear up any confusion about the outcome of the trial or just remain informed on the progress of the important voter-approved reforms contained within Measure B, you won't want to miss the following reprint of the Mayor's article:

"Last month, the Honorable Patricia Lucas issued a tentative decision in the lawsuit over San José's pension reforms. In upholding 10 of the 15 contested provisions, Judge Lucas protected most of the targeted savings from the measure, including the initial $20 million in annual savings from the elimination of "bonus" pension checks and retiree healthcare reforms. However, the court also ruled that the balance of expected savings could only be achieved through pay cuts, and not the additional pension contributions / optional low-cost pension plan that would be more advantageous for the employees.

View the judge's ruling (<http://www.sanjoseca.gov/DocumentCenter/View/25332>)

Mayor Reed's statement. (<http://www.sanjoseca.gov/ArchiveCenter/ViewFile/Item/2200>)

"We're pleased that the Judge protected the cost-savings that have allowed us to avoid additional deficits and to slowly begin restoring services and employee salaries," said Mayor Chuck Reed.

"However, the ruling also highlights how the current state of the law provides cities, counties and other government agencies with very little flexibility for dealing with skyrocketing retirement costs."

Disability Retirement: Following the Judge's decision to uphold the provisions reforming the disability retirement system, Mayor Reed has recommended proceeding with the provisions of Measure B that allow the City to provide additional benefits and accommodations to employees who are injured on the job, but do not qualify for a disability retirement (note: this would be on top of the benefits already in place for injured workers). In particular, Mayor Reed suggests:

- Ensuring that an alternative position is available for employees who are injured on the job and can no longer perform their current duties.
- Providing funding for disability insurance that helps cover the difference in wages when an injured employee is forced to switch jobs.”
